Transylvania University Sexual Misconduct Policy

Effective: October 2019

Definition of Terms: Reporting Party (alleged victim) Respondent (alleged perpetrator)

Purpose: Transylvania University is committed to providing members of the campus community with an educational and working environment free of discrimination, harassment, and retaliation.

Title IX Policy Statement: Transylvania University is committed to complying with Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, which prohibits sex- and gender- based discrimination in educational programs that receive federal funds. Sexual misconduct is a form of gender discrimination that, like other forms of unlawful discrimination, the University will not tolerate. The Title IX Coordinator for Transylvania University oversees the investigation of all sexual misconduct complaints filed with the University. In addition, there are trained Civil Rights Investigators and Process Advisors. This policy provides information about the definitions of prohibited behaviors that constitute sexual misconduct, as well as resources, reporting, and resolution procedures for incidents covered by this policy. Persons whom the University determines more likely than not (preponderance of evidence standard) have violated this policy are subject to sanctions up to and including dismissal or separation from the University, regardless of whether they are also facing criminal or civil charges before a government agency or a court of law. The University will respond promptly and effectively to reports of sexual misconduct and will take appropriate action to prevent, correct and, when appropriate, to discipline behavior that violates this policy. The University will also take steps in the event of sexual misconduct to remedy its discriminatory effects on the victim and others, if appropriate. Nothing contained in this policy should be construed to supplant or modify existing laws of the Commonwealth of Kentucky and the United States.

Equal Opportunity Policy Statement: Transylvania University’s Title IX policies exist as part of its broader commitment to equal opportunity for all, which states “Transylvania University is committed to ensuring that the institution is free of harassment and discrimination on the basis of race, color, citizenship status, sex, age, disability, pregnancy, creed, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, marital status, national or ethnic origin, religion or religious belief, veteran's status, or any other category protected by applicable state or federal law or local ordinance. This policy applies to, but is not limited to, recruitment and admission of students, recruitment and employment of faculty and staff, the operation of any of its programs, promotion, demotion, transfer, position advertising, reduction in force, termination, rates of pay, and selection for training. Consistent with this policy, the University does not tolerate discrimination or harassment of employees, students or other individuals associated with the University. In addition, the University prohibits unprofessional and discourteous actions that may affect a professional and congenial work environment. For this reason, derogatory racial, ethnic, religious, ageist, sexual, or other inappropriate remarks, slurs, or jokes will not be tolerated. This policy applies to all faculty, staff, administration, supervisors, employees, students, applicants, volunteers, and visitors to campus, including guests, patrons, independent contractors, vendors or clients of Transylvania University.”

Jurisdiction/Application: This policy applies to all University students, faculty, and staff, as well as third parties who interact with members of the University community, and all University-sponsored programs, events, and activities, regardless of where the alleged sexual misconduct occurs. In some cases the University’s ability to take action as to some persons or situations covered by this policy (such as guests, independent contractors or vendors, or situations occurring off-campus) may be limited; however, the University will make a good faith effort to adequately review and address such cases. The University will take steps to make this policy available to all students, faculty and staff through annual distribution. Upon request, this policy can be translated for those with disabilities and/or for whom English language is a second language.

Statement of Rights for Reporting Party and Respondents: As described in further detail below, parties involved in incidents and proceedings covered by this policy will be afforded the following rights:

Both the reporting party and the respondent have the right to

- be treated with respect by University officials
- experience a safe educational and work environment - Remedial accommodations can be provided through the Title IX Coordinator.
- be free from retaliation – Any act of retaliation for reporting alleged sexual misconduct or participating in an investigation or proceeding under this policy will result in appropriate disciplinary action (see Retaliation). This includes pre- and post-resolution.
- take advantage of campus support resources such as Counseling Services and University Health Services for students, or Employee Assistance Provider services for employees
- have an advisor present throughout the process; however, advisors may not directly participate in hearings
- speak on their own behalf - Invoking the right not to speak will not be considered an admission of responsibility.
- a formal resolution process using a preponderance of evidence standard (more likely than not) for determining the outcome of investigations
- access information and evidence directly related to them within a reasonable time before a hearing under this policy
- attend a hearing conducted under this policy - The University may proceed with a hearing even if a party declines to exercise his or her right to attend.
● notice of the specific allegations at issue in a case, including notice of anticipated witnesses and evidence to be addressed in a hearing under this policy
● introduce evidence and question witnesses at a hearing conducted under this policy; provided, however, that the reporting party and the respondent will not be allowed to directly question each other
● appeal the outcome of a formal hearing (within the guidelines of the appeals process - see section G)

The reporting party has the right to ● pursue criminal and legal action, in addition to or in lieu of pursuing University proceedings under this policy - In no case should a reporting party be dissuaded from reporting sexual misconduct to law enforcement. The University will conduct an investigation under its own policy regardless of whether a reporting party elects to file a criminal report. If the respondent is someone outside the campus community, such as student or faculty member from another institution, the University reserves the right to contact that institution for further investigation.
● choose whether or not to file a complaint with the University - The University reserves the right to initiate resolution proceedings through an Administrative Review process without a formal report or participation by the reporting party when necessary to protect the community in cases indicating pattern, predation, threat, weapons, and/or violence.

The respondent has the right to
● be notified of an investigation of alleged Title IX policy violations prior to meeting with the Title IX Coordinator – The Title IX Coordinator will provide written notice to the responding party of the allegations constituting a potential violation of Transylvania Universities Title IX Policy, including sufficient details and with sufficient time to prepare a response before any initial interview. Sufficient details include the identities of the parties involved (when applicable), the specific section of the code of conduct allegedly violated, the precise conduct allegedly constituting the potential violation, and the date and location of the alleged incident (when applicable).

Role of the Title IX Coordinator and/or designee: The Title IX Coordinator is charged with coordinating the University’s response to reports of sexual misconduct under this policy. At times a trained designee may be appointed to investigate complaints filed with the University. The role of the Title IX Coordinator or designee is a complex role that:
● works to ensure a fair and neutral process for all parties
● explains options for resolution, both formal and informal to both parties
● determines appropriate remedies or sanctions in informal resolutions
● communicates the provisions for confidentiality
● provides both parties information on options for obtaining advocacy, medical and counseling services, and remedial actions available
● assists with making criminal reports when applicable

Updated October 2019
• coordinates with other campus officials to take appropriate interim actions such as no contact orders, academic accommodations, and rearrangement of housing, dining, and work assignments when applicable
• monitors outcomes of sexual misconduct reporting parties
• identifies and addresses patterns and assesses the effects of sexual misconduct on the campus climate so the University can address issues that affect the wider University community
• monitors compliance with the reporting, investigation, hearing, and appeals processes outlined in this policy
• determines whether campus-wide remedies are needed in response to sexual misconduct complaints, including but not limited to revision of policies, increased monitoring, supervision, or security, and increased education and prevention efforts
• reviews sanctions issued under this policy to ensure that they, along with any remedial accommodations made, are reasonably calculated to stop the sexual misconduct and prevent their reoccurrence.

Definitions of Prohibited Conduct

Sexual misconduct is a form of gender discrimination prohibited by Title IX. Acts of discrimination constituting sexual misconduct covered by this policy are defined below. The determination of what constitutes sexual misconduct will vary with the facts and circumstances of each case. For acts of discrimination that are not addressed in this policy, including gender discrimination that does not involve sexual misconduct, please see the University’s other policies on discrimination.

Gender-Based Bullying: Defined as repeated and/or severe gender-based (including gender identity) behavior that is likely to intimidated or intentionally hurt, control, or diminish another person physically or mentally, that is not speech or conduct otherwise protected by the First Amendment.

Non-Consensual Sexual Contact: Any intentional sexual contact, however slight, with any object, by a person upon another person that is without consent and/or by force or against the person’s will where the person is incapable of giving consent.

Sexual Contact: Includes intentional contact with the breasts, buttocks, groin, or genitals, or touching another with any of these body parts and/or any other intentional bodily contact in a sexual manner.

Sexual Harassment: Sexual harassment can take one of two forms; The first form involves unwelcome sexual, sex-based, and/or gender-based verbal, written, electronic, and/or physical conduct which creates a hostile environment that is so sufficiently severe, or persistent, or pervasive, and objectively offensive that it unreasonable interferes with, denies, or limits a person’s ability to participate in or benefit from the institution’s educational (and/or employment), social and/or residential program. This form may come from a supervisor, an educator or from any other person at the University. The second form involves either (1) submission to unwelcome advances of a supervisor or educator as an express or implied condition of receiving work or educational benefits, or (2) a tangible work or educational detriment resulting from a person’s failure or refusal to submit to the sexual demands of a supervisor or educator. The more severe the conduct, the less need there is to show a repetitive series of incidents to prove a hostile environment, particularly if the conduct is physical. A single or isolated incident of sexual violence may create a hostile environment.

Sexual Exploitation: One person takes non-consensual or abusive sexual advantage of another for his/her own advantage or benefit, or to benefit or advantage anyone other than the one being exploited, and that behavior does not otherwise constitute one of the other sexual misconduct offenses.

Indecent Exposure: Indecent exposure is the deliberate exposure in public or in view of the general public by a person of a portion or portions of their body in circumstances where the exposure is contrary to local moral or other standards of appropriate behavior.

Stalking: Stalking includes repetitive and menacing behavior. Pursuit, following, harassing, and/or interfering with the peace and/or safety of another.

Intimate Partner Violence: Violence or emotional abuse between those who are in or have been in an intimate or romantic relationship to each other.

Criminal Definitions: Section 304 of the Violence Against Women Reauthorization Act (VAWA), known as the SaVE Act provisions, obligates the University's policy to include the definitions used by Kentucky's penal code (KRS Chapters 500 to 534) for "domestic violence," "dating violence," "sexual assault," "stalking," and "consent" with respect to sexual offenses. These can be found in Appendix A. Kentucky's penal code does not define domestic violence or dating violence, although other crimes may apply to those circumstances. Kentucky's penal code defines sexual abuse in lieu of sexual assault, stalking, and lack of consent, which are set forth in Appendix A. Please note that the Kentucky penal code definitions are for your information only as required by federal law or purposes of applying the University's policy, the definitions for this policy, set out above, will govern.

Consent

Consent is informed. Consent is an affirmative, knowing unambiguous, and conscious decision by each participant to engage in mutually agreed-upon sexual activity.

Consent is voluntary. Consent must be given without coercion, force, threats, or intimidation. Consent means a positive cooperation in the act or expression of intent to engage in the act pursuant to an exercise of free will. Even though consent does not necessarily need to be verbal, relying purely on non-verbal communication can lead to misunderstandings. A spoken agreement is the most clearly indicated form of consent. It may not, in any way, be inferred from silence, passivity, lack of resistance or lack of an active response alone. Assuming that consent was given by the absence of a “no” is wrong.

Consent is revocable. Consent to some form of sexual activity does not imply consent to other forms of sexual activity. Consent to sexual activity on one occasion is not consent to engage in sexual activity on another occasion. A current or previous dating or sexual relationship, by itself, is not sufficient to constitute consent. Even in the context of a relationship, there must be mutual consent to engage in sexual activity. Consent must be ongoing throughout a sexual encounter and can be revoked at any time. Once consent is withdrawn, the sexual activity must stop immediately.
Consent cannot be given when a person is incapacitated. A person cannot consent if they are unconscious or coming in and out of consciousness. A person cannot consent if they are under the threat of violence, bodily injury or other forms of coercion. A person cannot consent if their understanding of the act is affected by a physical or mental impairment. Consent must be given with rational and reasonable judgement, so if the individual were physically incapacitated from the consumption of alcohol or other drugs, unconsciousness, or any other kind of inability, consent cannot be obtained.

Unwelcome Conduct does not have to include intent to harm, be directed at a specific target or involve repeated incidents, and can involve persons of the same or opposite sex. Participation in conduct or the failure to complain does not always mean the conduct was welcome. The fact that a person has welcomed some conduct does not necessarily mean a person welcomed other conduct. Similarly, the fact that a person may have invited, requested or otherwise consented to conduct on one occasion does not necessarily mean the conduct is welcome on a later occasion.

Consensual Relationships: The Office of Civil Rights dictates that consensual romantic and/or sexual relationships where a power differential exists, whether real or perceived, will be assumed nonconsensual when a complaint is filed. The effect of such a relationship may render an individual’s work, academic, or social environment intimidating, offensive, or hostile. Hence, all University employees are strongly discouraged from entering into romantic and/or sexual relationships which could lead to the creation of a hostile educational, social, and/or work environment for other members of the University community.

Reporting: Any person may file a report of sexual misconduct at any time. Early reporting is encouraged to preserve evidence and provide alleged victims of sexual misconduct with information about rights, options, and resources available under this policy and state/federal laws. The Title IX Coordinator will provide reporting parties with information about available services and resources, and also assist reporting parties in notifying law enforcement, including local police, if the reporting party elects to do so. Reporting parties are not required to report to area law enforcement in order to receive assistance from or pursue options within the University. Reporting sexual misconduct to the police does not commit a reporting party to further legal action. The sooner, however, an incident is reported, the easier it will be for the police to investigate if the reporting party decides to proceed with criminal charges.

Responsible Employees: Transylvania University encourages all employees to report known or suspected incidents of sexual misconduct to the Title IX Coordinator. In addition, Transylvania University requires such reporting of all “Responsible Employees” at the University. Responsible Employees include the President, Vice Presidents and Members of the Cabinet, Directors, Student Affairs Professional Staff members, Athletic administrators and coaching staff, office staff, faculty, and Resident Advisors. Members of the campus community who wish to report an incident of sexual misconduct are encouraged to speak either to the Title IX Coordinator or to a Responsible Employee, who in turn will promptly notify the Title IX Coordinator. Details of a report can include but may not be limited to the names of the alleged respondent(s), reporting party(s), witnesses; and facts such as date(s), time(s), and location(s). Licensed mental health professional, on-campus healthcare providers, and ordained ministers working in Spirituality and Religious Life are exempt from being mandatory reporters for the purposes of this policy.

NOTE: Licensed mental health professionals, on-campus healthcare providers, and ordained ministers working on campus are exempt from being mandatory reporters for students only. Faculty and staff seeking confidential resources are encouraged to utilize the services provided through the University’s employee assistance program.

Confidentiality: Reports and personal information will be kept as confidential as possible to the extent the law allows and to the extent confidentiality is consistent with the University’s need to protect the safety of the University community. Requests for confidentiality will be evaluated by the Title IX Coordinator. Complete confidentiality cannot be promised as the University will need to thoroughly investigate the case, and may need to share some information with relevant administrators of the University in order to further protect and prevent incidents. Reports to law enforcement may be shared with the University’s Title IX Coordinator. The University may be required by law to publish non-identifying information in the Clery Annual Security Report and/or other campus crime statistics documents.

All University employees (with the exception of those who may be bound by confidentiality laws or privileges as further addressed in this policy) should share information that they learn of regarding a report of sexual misconduct with the Title IX Coordinator so they can investigate the matter and determine whether steps are needed to ensure the safety of the University community.

It is the reporting party’s choice as to whether they participate in an investigation; however, the University reserves the right to initiate resolution proceedings through an Administrative Review process without a formal report or participation by the reporting party when necessary to protect the community in cases indicating pattern, predation, threat, weapons, and/or violence.

Retaliation: The University seeks to create an environment where its students and employees are free, without fear of reprisal, to use its procedures to determine if there has been a violation of their rights under this policy. Any act of retaliation for reporting sexual misconduct or participating in an investigation or proceeding under this policy will result in appropriate disciplinary action. Both the reporting party and the respondent have the right to be free from retaliation before, during, and after an inquiry or investigation into alleged misconduct.

Retaliation is defined as any materially adverse action taken against a person based upon their participation in a protected activity. Retaliation against an individual for alleging a violation of this policy, supporting a complainant, or for assisting in providing information relevant to a claim, is a serious violation of this policy. Retaliatory behavior is not limited to behavior by the reporting party and/or the respondent, and covers behavior by their associates, as well as third parties. Acts of alleged retaliation should be reported immediately to the Title IX Coordinator. Retaliation is considered an independent allegation that may lead to interim measures and/or disciplinary action if found responsible. Reports of retaliation in violation of this policy will be processed under this policy the same as other alleged violations of this policy.

Direct Reporting Options

Direct/Formal Reporting: Alleged victims of sexual misconduct are strongly encouraged to report allegations of sexual misconduct directly to the Title IX Coordinator or to a Responsible Employee. Responsible Employees must promptly report known or suspected incidents of sexual misconduct to the Title IX Coordinator. Formal reports initiate a direct course of immediate action. Reporting parties have the right, and can expect to have complaints taken seriously by the University when formally reported, and to have those incidents investigated and addressed through these procedures. Formal reporting still affords privacy to all those involved as information will be shared on a need-to-know basis with a small group of officials, witnesses, and the respondent(s). The number of people with this knowledge will be kept as low as reasonably possible to preserve the privacy of those involved.

If a person decides to make a formal complaint, a detailed (written, typed, emailed, or handwritten) statement of the alleged incident(s) should be submitted to the Title IX Coordinator. This statement should be signed and dated, and should be specific as possible, including dates, times, locations, a description of the alleged misconduct and the name(s) of the respondent(s), and further include a list of persons who may have information that may be helpful to the University’s investigation of the matter.

Police Reporting: Reports may also be made to the police, especially if a crime is or may be involved by calling the following numbers:

- Department of Public Safety 859-233-8118 (on-campus incidents)
- Lexington Bureau of Investigation - (859)258-3600
- Emergency 9-1-1

Individuals are encouraged to call 9-1-1, if someone is in immediate danger. Allegations of possible criminal conduct can be reported to law enforcement even when it is not clear whether the conduct rises to the level of a crime. Regardless, law enforcement can assist with obtaining medical care, getting immediate law enforcement response and protection, connecting the individual with victim advocate services and counseling support, initiating a criminal investigation as appropriate, and answering questions about the criminal process. The result of an external criminal investigation does not impact whether a violation of University policy has occurred, and therefore will not take the place of a University investigation. The University does not have to wait for the conclusion of a criminal investigation to begin conducting its own independent investigation, take interim measures to protect the University or any member of the University community, or when necessary, to initiate formal resolution options outlined below.

Indirect Reporting Options

Anonymous and Third Party Reporting: The Title IX Coordinator accepts anonymous and third-party reports of conduct alleged to violate this policy and will follow up on such reports in a timely manner.
The individual making the report is encouraged to provide as much detailed information as possible to allow the Title IX Coordinator or designee to initiate an inquiry, investigation, and/or respond as appropriate. The University may be limited in its ability to investigate an anonymous or third party report unless sufficient information is provided. Anonymous reporting can be done using the Title IX online reporting form.

Confidential Disclosure: If a reporting party would like the details of an incident to be kept confidential, the reporting party may speak with personnel not designated as a Responsible Employee, including counselors, health service providers, victim services advocates, domestic violence resources, local or state assistance agencies, or members of the clergy who are permitted by law to maintain confidentiality (except in extreme cases of immediate threat or danger or abuse of a minor). Such resources may submit anonymous statistical information without identifying information to our reporting bodies to permit the University to send out a timely warning and for Clery Act reporting purposes. If a reporting party is unsure of a resource’s ability to maintain confidentiality, the reporting party is advised to ask the individual before talking to them. On-Campus Counseling is available for students and the Employee Assistance Program is available to employees. Both are free of charge.

Red Flag Reporting: Red Flag reporting is available to the campus community as a reporting method for those that are not comfortable with existing internal reporting channels. To file a report using Red Flag Reporting go to www.redflagreporting.com or call 1-877-64-RedFlag (1-877-647-3335).

Following the Report Filed: Subject to the parties’ respective rights and the University’s obligation to investigate and redress violations, every reasonable effort will be made to maintain the confidentiality of all those involved in complaints under this policy. In all cases, the University will give consideration to the reporting party with respect to whether the complaint is pursued but reserves the right, when necessary to protect the community, to investigate, and to pursue a resolution when a reporting party chooses not to initiate or participate in a formal complaint. In cases where a reporting party advises that he or she does not want to pursue a complaint, the ability of the University to investigate and address the situation may be limited. Even if a reporting party does not want to pursue a complaint, under some circumstances, the University may have an obligation to convene an Administrative Review to ensure the safety of the campus and community. When determining whether to go forward with an Administrative Review, the Title IX Coordinator may consider factors such as the seriousness of the allegations, the age of the respondent, and the rights of the respondent to receive information about the reporting party and the allegations if a hearing and possible sanctions may result from pursuing a complaint. The University will evaluate a person’s request that their name not be revealed in the context of its responsibility to provide a safe and nondiscriminatory environment for members of the campus community. In the event a reporting party requests that the University inform the respondent they asked the University not to investigate or seek discipline, the University will honor this request and inform the respondent that the University made the decision to go forward.

There is no fixed time frame under which a school must complete a Title IX investigation, however the Title IX Coordinator will make every effort to resolve the complaint in a timely manner. Reasons for a delay in investigating and resolving a complaint will be detailed in the investigative report.
Remedial Assistance: Several remedial assistance options are available to both the reporting party and the respondent, including but not limited to, classroom assistance, no contact orders, no trespass orders, counseling services, residential living assistance, and/or other assistance options that can help create an increased sense of safety. In addition, if the University feels that the respondent is a continued threat on our campus, the University has the right to temporarily suspend until resolution of the investigation. The Title IX Coordinator determines which assistance options are appropriate on a case-by-case basis. The Title IX Coordinator may ask a reporting party or their counselor, provider, or advisor what assistance options, if any, are sought. If the reporting party seeks assistance that is not already provided by the University, the Title IX Coordinator will consider whether the request can be granted.

The University is also committed to ensuring that orders of protection issued by courts are upheld on all University-owned, used, and controlled property, as well as properties immediately adjacent to the University. Therefore, if any member of the University community obtains an order of protection or restraining order, they should promptly inform the Title IX Coordinator and provide them with a copy of that order so the University can enforce it.

Federal Timely Warning Obligations: Parties reporting sexual misconduct should be aware that University administrators must issue crime alerts for incidents reported to them that represent a serious or continuing threat to students or employees, per the Clery Act. Should University administrators judge that a crime alert is warranted, the University will withhold names and other identifying information while providing enough information for community members to make safety decisions in light of the potential danger.

Reporting of Offenses—Drug and Alcohol Amnesty: The University will not pursue disciplinary action for improper use of alcohol or other drugs against a party reporting sexual misconduct or against another student who shares information as either a witness or as a reporter of sexual misconduct, as long as the report is made in good faith. The University may, however, refer the student to counseling services. Deliberately false and/or malicious accusations of discrimination, harassment, or retaliation, (as opposed to complaints which, even if erroneous, are made in good faith) are just as serious an offense as discrimination, harassment, or retaliation and will be subject to appropriate disciplinary action.

Title IX Advisor: Individuals involved in a Title IX investigation regardless if they choose to go through the informal or formal resolution processes described below are permitted to utilize an advisor of their choice. A Faculty/Staff Process Advisor is a Transylvania administrator or faculty member who is trained to support and assist both the reporting party and respondent throughout the University Process. Individuals can choose from a diverse list of potential Process Advisors and may switch Process Advisors at any point should they choose. Those choosing to use an outside advisor should be reminded that only one advisor is allowed to be present and the advisor is only permitted to serve as a silent support person and may not speak on their behalf.
Inquiry, Investigation and Resolution Process

Inquiry and Investigation: The University will respond to any alleged violation of this policy received by the Title IX Coordinator. The Title IX Coordinator and/or designee will conduct an initial inquiry into all filed reports to ensure the report states a violation of this policy. Each complaint will be evaluated on a case-by-case basis, taking into account the relevant circumstances of each case. If the initial inquiry determines a report is persistent and/or pervasive and/or threatening and cannot be resolved through an informal resolution process, the report will be assigned to a trained investigator. The investigation process may include interviews, reviewing student/employee files, and gathering and examining other relevant evidence. Both parties may present witnesses or evidence during the investigation process. The investigation process will be balanced, giving both the reporting party and the respondent a chance to discuss their involvement in the reported incident. An investigative report will document information gathered throughout the process and will be made available to both parties. If the investigation concludes that evidence exists to suggest that a violation of this policy more likely than not occurred (preponderance of evidence standard), the investigator along with the Title IX Coordinator can refer the case to a hearing before the Sexual Misconduct Hearing Board. If, however, the investigation concludes that sufficient evidence does not exist, the matter will be closed without further proceedings under this policy. Regardless of the outcome, the reporting party and the respondent will be notified of the findings in writing. If the individual being charged is an employee, the respondent’s department head/director, Dean, Vice President, and the President will also be notified of the findings.

Informal Resolution Process: Informal resolution is a process overseen by the Title IX Coordinator, the primary goal of which is to end sexual misconduct, prevent a recurrence, and remedy any known impact on the campus community. The Title IX Coordinator will determine if informal resolution is appropriate, based on the willingness of the parties, the information gathered during the investigation, and the nature of the alleged conduct. Sanctions that occur as a result of informal resolutions are recommended by the Title IX Coordinator and final determination is made by the Dean of Students and/or designee. There is no right of appeal for the Reporting Party or Respondent if both parties agree to the proposed sanctions when resolving informally.

Anyone participating in the informal resolution process can stop that process at any time and request to continue through the formal resolution process. In addition, the University reserves the right to change an informal resolution process to a formal resolution process if informal resolution efforts are not feasible or productive, or if sufficient evidence suggests the need to do so. It is not necessary to pursue an informal resolution process first in order to initiate a formal resolution process.

Sexual Misconduct Hearing Board

If the investigation concludes that evidence exists to suggest that a violation of this policy more likely than not occurred (preponderance of evidence standard) and the parties do not wish to resolve informally, the Title IX Coordinator can refer the case to a hearing before the Sexual Misconduct Hearing Board. The Title IX Coordinator and the Dean of Students Office will convene a Sexual Misconduct Hearing Board consisting of three Transylvania community members to conduct a closed hearing. More specifically, the board will consist of current faculty/staff Judicial Council members. Members of the sexual misconduct hearing board will not all be of the same gender. All hearing board members are required to receive annual training on all issues related to domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault, stalking, and exploitation, and how to conduct a hearing process that protects the safety of the complainants and promotes accountability. Additionally, hearing board members receive a review training session within one week of hearing a case. All involved parties will be informed of the composition of the board at least five (5) business days prior to the hearing, and can object to any member of the board for cause. Replacement of any hearing board member is at the Title IX Coordinators and the Dean of Students office discretion. Any misconduct concurrent with Title IX will also be adjudicated through the Title IX resolution process.

Sexual Misconduct Hearing

Notice of Hearing: If a matter is referred to a hearing before the Sexual Misconduct Board, the Dean of Students office and/or the Title IX Coordinator will send both the reporting party and the respondent a written notice of hearing. The notice will address the following: (1) the specific allegations, witnesses, and evidence to be addressed at the hearing, including a copy of the investigative summary; (2) the date, time, and location for the hearing; (3) the parties’ right to attend the hearing, although the University may proceed with a hearing even if a party declines to exercise his or her right to attend; (4) the parties’ right to access information and evidence directly related to them at a pre-hearing meeting (below) to be held within a reasonable time before the hearing; (5) the parties’ right to have an advisor of their choosing present at the hearing, as well as access to the University’s advisor list; (6) the parties’ right to speak out on their own behalves, although invoking the right not to speak will not be considered an admission of responsibility; and (7) the parties’ right to introduce evidence and present/question witnesses at the hearing, provided that the reporting party and respondent will not be allowed to directly question each other, nor will their advisor/advocate.

Pre-Hearing Meeting: Following the delivery of the notice of hearing, the Title IX Coordinator along with a representative from the Dean of Students office will meet with the reporting party and respondent separately to: (1) review the investigative report; and (2) discuss the hearing process. Any witnesses and evidence that a party may wish to present that are not already listed in the notice of hearing must be received by the Title IX Coordinator no later than one (1) business day following the pre-hearing meetings.

Witness: Any persons having specific knowledge of the matter may be called as a witness by either the reporting party or the respondent. Disclosure of witnesses and evidence will be handled through the pre-hearing process outlined above and/or in a supplemental letter sent to both parties prior to the hearing date. No surprise witnesses and/or guests will be permitted at the hearing. Witnesses’ testimony must be relevant to the issues for hearing. Once all witness lists and documentary evidence have been shared among both the reporting party and the respondent, both are invited to submit questions in writing for the sexual misconduct hearing board to consider asking during the hearing. These questions are due one (1) business days before the hearing. Whether these questions will be introduced at the hearing is at the discretion of the board. In addition, both parties will also be given the opportunity at the hearing to propose questions to the sexual misconduct hearing board for consideration.

The Hearing: All hearings will be live and recorded by a transcriber. With the exception of an advisor/advocate, hearings are closed meetings. The Title IX Coordinator or designee will ensure both parties, as well as, the Dean of Students office, and the sexual misconduct hearing board receive all evidence five (5) business days before the hearing. As with all University judicial system cases, a hearing may proceed even if one or both parties fail to attend the hearing. The order of the hearing will typically be as follows:

1. Introduction and reading of the alleged violations
2. Opening statement by reporting party
3. Opening statement by respondent
4. Presentation of witnesses by reporting party
5. Presentation of witnesses by respondent
6. Questions from the hearing board
7. Closing statement by the respondent
8. Closing statement by the reporting party
9. Closed deliberation by the hearing board
10. Rendering of decision by the hearing board

Special Accommodations: Either party may request to present their case outside the physical presence of the other party. Every effort will be made to accommodate such requests. Either party wishing to make a request for special accommodations must submit in writing their request at least three (3) business days prior to the hearing to the Title IX Coordinator.

Hearing Board Outcome: Following the hearing, the decision of whether a policy violation has occurred will be determined by using a preponderance of the evidence standard. A finding of a policy violation by a preponderance of the evidence means that it is more likely than not that the policy violation occurred. If, following the hearing, the decision is that the evidence does not support a finding that a policy violation has occurred the process will end. Regardless of the outcome, the reporting party, the respondent, and the Title IX Coordinator will be notified of the findings in writing once the findings letter is generated.

If an individual is found in violation of University policy, the sexual misconduct hearing board will recommend appropriate disciplinary sanctions to be considered by the Dean of Students or designee. The Dean of Students or designee will notify the respondent, the reporting party, and the Title IX Coordinator in writing of the outcome. To ensure all things are considered, some sanctions might take up to seven (7) business days to fully define and to determine the parameters of the particular sanction given.
Accepting Responsibility: A respondent may choose to accept responsibility at any time during a hearing for the alleged policy violations. There is no right of appeal if a respondent accepts responsibility and proposed sanctions or remedies during a hearing.

Recommended Sanctions and Remedies

What sanctions and remedies are appropriate will depend on the individual circumstances of each case, but all sanctions and remedies should be reasonably calculated to stop the sexual misconduct at issue, prevent its recurrence, and remedy its effects on the reporting party; and where appropriate, the campus community.

Common Student Sanctions and Remedies: Sanctions or remedies for a student who has violated the Title IX Policy may include, but are not limited to, verbal or written warning, required educational program, social probation, loss of privileges, counseling, no contact order, residence hall relocation, suspension or expulsion, limited access to campus, service hours, online education, parental notification, alcohol and drug assessment/counseling, discretionary sanctions, academic suspension, and/or academic expulsion.

Common Employee Sanctions and Remedies: Sanctions for an employee who has violated the Title IX Policy may include, but are not limited to, verbal or written warning, probation, performance improvement/management process, educational training, counseling, loss of privileges, reduction in pay, loss of annual raise, discretionary sanctions, loss of supervisory or oversight of responsibilities, paid or unpaid leave, suspension, and/or termination.

Failure to Complete Sanctions and Remedies: All respondents are expected to comply with conduct sanctions and remedies within the time frame specified in their written notice. The Title IX Office and/or the Dean of Students Office and/or designee will monitor the completion of sanctions. Failure to follow through on conduct sanctions by the date specified, whether by refusal, neglect, or any other reason, may result in additional sanctions and/or suspension, expulsion, and/or termination from the University. For students, failure to comply may result in suspension and/or hold to prevent future registration.

Withdrawal/Resignation While Charges Pending

Student: Should a responding student decide to withdraw from the University and/or not participate in the investigation and/or hearing, the individual charged will not be permitted to return to the University unless any and all sanctions have been satisfied. The Title IX Coordinator will continue to act promptly and effectively to remedy the effects of the conduct upon the reporting party and the community.

Employee Resignation: Should a responding employee resign while charges are pending, the records of the Title IX Coordinator will reflect that status, as will University responses to any future inquiries regarding employment references for that individual. Should an employee decide to leave and not participate in the investigation and/or hearing, that employee will not be permitted to return to the University unless any and all sanctions have been satisfied. The Title IX Coordinator will continue to act promptly and effectively to remedy the effects of the conduct upon the reporting party and the community.

Appeals

Appeals of the decision will go before a Hearing Appeals Officer. The Hearing Appeals Officer for students is the VP for Student and/or Academic Affairs or designee, and for employees is the Vice President/President, or designee. An appeal of the decision may be filed by the reporting party, the respondent, or both. All requests for appeal considerations must be submitted in writing to the Title IX Coordinator within five (5) business days from the delivery of the decision letter. The Title IX Coordinator will share the appeal with the appropriate office for consideration. The original finding and responsive actions will stand if the appeal is not timely or is not based on the grounds listed below, and such a finding and responsive action(s) are final. The Title IX Coordinator or designee will ensure the appeal meets the following criteria to permit the appeal to move forward.

Appeals must be based on one of the following grounds:

- A procedural error or omission occurred that could have significantly impacted the outcome.
- There is new evidence, unknown or unavailable at the time of hearing, which could have substantially impacted the finding or sanction. A summary of this new evidence and its potential impact upon the investigation must be included in the appeal.
- The sanctions or remedies imposed are substantially disproportionate to the severity of the violation.

When a party requests an appeal, the other party (parties) will be notified and given three (3) business days to respond in writing to the Title IX Coordinator.

Where the Hearing Appeals Officer finds that at least one of the grounds is met, and proceeds with the appeal, additional principles governing the hearing of appeals include the following:

- All parties will be informed of the grounds for which the appeal has been accepted.
- Interim and/or protective actions will be imposed and/or continued as appropriate.

Hearing Appeal Officer: Appeals are not intended to be full re-hearings of the complaint. Appeals are confined to a review of the written documentation or record of the original hearing and pertinent documentation regarding the grounds for appeal. Upon review of all of the information, the Hearing Appeal Officer has the authority to do one of the following: uphold, reverse, or modify the sanctions recommended by the Hearing Board or remand the case back to a Hearing Board - An appeal can only be remanded to a Hearing Board due to a procedural error or new information.

The Hearing Appeal Officer will generally render a decision within five (5) business days to the Title IX Coordinator. The Hearing Appeals Officer or designee will communicate the outcome to all involved parties and all University personnel that need to know in a timely manner. Once an appeal is decided, the outcome is final; further appeals are not permitted under this policy.
Records: In implementing this policy, records of all complaints, resolutions, and hearings will be kept by the Title IX Coordinator indefinitely in the Title IX Office.

Bystanders

The University strongly encourages bystanders to “step up” on behalf of another person’s wellbeing and safety. The reporting options listed in this policy are available for bystanders as well. There are also safe and positive options for bystanders who intervene during an incident in order to prevent harm when there was a risk or act of violence. These options include:

Be aware of what is going on around you. Trust your instincts. Assume personal responsibility and say or do something – don’t assume that someone else will help.

Assess the situation. You have to decide what the safest way is for you and others involved to help. Gauge whether the situation requires calling authorities. When deciding to intervene, your personal safety should be the #1 priority. When in doubt, call for help. Other possible people to reach out to for assistance in helping are faculty, staff, supervisors, counselors, etc.

Decide whether to use direct or indirect action to resolve the problem. For example:
- Direct Actions: Point out someone’s behavior in a manner that will help de-escalate the situation, talk to a friend to ensure he/she is okay, call the police.
- Indirect Action: Make up an excuse to help someone get away from a potential offender, and call the local authorities.

Intervene – with reinforcements. If you gauge it is safe to intervene, you’re likely to have a greater influence on the parties involved when you work together with someone or several people. Your safety is increased when you stay with a group of friends that you know well. Remember, 911 is often the best way to intervene if there is a question of safety for anyone.

- Try to intervene in a compassionate, non-threatening manner.
- Be aware of the available resources for assisting persons on campus and in the community.
- Encourage them to seek assistance and offer them resources for assistance.

If someone experiences sexual misconduct (immediate steps): A person who experiences sexual misconduct may respond to the experience in many different ways, including feeling confused, vulnerable, out of control, embarrassed, angry, or depressed. The University and community provide a variety of resources to assist individuals who have experienced sexual misconduct; both to address the effects of the incident, and to help them identify the options available to them for making a complaint about the incident and offer assistance if requested.

1. Go to a safe place and speak with someone you trust. Tell this person what happened. If there is any immediate danger, call the University’s Department of Public Safety if you are on-campus and/or 911 if you are not.
2. Consider contacting the Ampersand Sexual Violence Resource Center of the Bluegrass for professional support to assist you in the crisis. On-campus counseling is also available to all current students M-F 9am-5pm and can be reached by emailing counseling@transy.edu. The Woodland Group is available to employees and can be reached by calling 1-800-350-6438. Additional resources are available through any of the before mentioned contacts.
3. For your safety and well-being, immediate medical attention is encouraged. The medical centers, both on and off campus, provide treatment of injuries, STI screenings, and pregnancy testing. If you wish to have an evidence kit collected (“rape kit”), you can do so at any local hospital. If possible, do not shower, brush your teeth, urinate, eat, drink or change clothes until after evidence is collected.
4. Evidence of violence, such as bruising or other visible injuries, should be documented by taking photographs. Evidence of stalking or exploitation, including communications such as written notes, emails, voice mails, or other electronic communications sent by the alleged stalker or exploiter, should be saved and not altered in any way.
5. You may request police to remain at the scene of an incident until your safety is otherwise secured. You can also request that a police officer assist you by arranging transportation or by taking you to a safe place such as a shelter or a family member or friend’s residence.
6. You may obtain a copy of the police report from your incident at no cost from the police department.
7. Consider your reporting and support options. No survivor of sexual misconduct is required to make a report or take legal action. However, you can choose to report to the Title IX Coordinator and/or local law enforcement. If you contact the Title IX Coordinator, that person can assist you with University concerns, such as no-contact orders or other protective measures on campus, and/or provide you with a full list of support services and options both on campus and in the community. Either the Title IX Coordinator or the Department of Public Safety can assist you in contacting law enforcement, if you desire.

Training and Education: All students, faculty, and staff must annually complete University-sponsored training on sexual misconduct issues within the dates and times arranged by the Title IX Coordinator. Failure to do so may result in corrective action. Annual training will, at a minimum, cover the following:

- University policies and procedures for reporting and addressing sexual misconduct
- Reminders that the University prohibits the offenses of domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault, sexual exploitation, and stalking

18 Updated October 2019
- review definitions for domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault, sexual exploitation, stalking, and consent
- training on safe and positive options for bystander intervention that may be carried out by a person to prevent harm or to intervene when there is a risk of sexual misconduct against a person other than such person
- information on risk reduction to recognize warning signs of abusive behavior and harm reduction
- possible sanctions or protective measures that may be imposed following a finding of determination of an institutional disciplinary procedure regarding sexual misconduct
- procedures reporters should follow if sexual misconduct has occurred
- procedures for institutional disciplinary action in cases of alleged sexual misconduct
- information about existing counseling, health, mental health, advocacy, legal assistance, and other services available both on campus and in the community
- information about options for, and available assistance in, changing academic, living, transportation, and working situations, if so requested by the parties and if such accommodations are reasonably available, regardless of whether the party chooses to report the crimes to campus police or local law enforcement

The Office of Student Wellbeing and the Title IX Coordinator organize training and awareness programs for the Transylvania community. Awareness programs include, but are not limited to, increased understanding of sexual misconduct, stalking, partner violence, and consent. Students are required to complete Everfi’s Sexual Assault Prevention course prior to their arrival on campus. Everfi’s Sexual Assault Prevention course provides a brief overview of the effects of trauma and the role alcohol and other drugs can play in sexual violence. Students are also required to attend mandatory orientation sessions for Title IX and Green Dot. The Title IX orientation program helps students understand the school’s grievance procedures and reporting options including both formal and confidential disclosure options. The training also provides students with an understanding of what constitutes a hostile environment and encourages students to report without the need of determining what does and does not create a hostile environment. Students are also informed of the confidential reporting resources both on and off campus. All employees (including students) are required to complete online trainings provided by Everfi. Student athletes and athletic staff, Greek life leaders, and other student organizations on campus receive in person training from the Title IX Coordinator throughout each academic year. Failure to complete training required under this policy may result in disciplinary or corrective action consistent with University policy. The Title IX Coordinator is also available for on-demand training to answer any additional questions.

Revisions: These policies and procedures will be reviewed and updated regularly by the Title IX Coordinator. The Title IX Coordinator may make minor modifications to procedures that do not materially change the process. However, the Title IX Coordinator may also vary procedures materially with notice (on the University’s policy website, with appropriate date of effect identified) upon determining that changes to law or regulation require policy or procedural alterations not reflected in this policy and procedure. Policy in effect at the time of the offense will apply even if the policy is changed subsequently, unless the parties consent to be bound by the current policy or applicable law requires otherwise.

APPENDIX A: STATE LAW DEFINITIONS

These state law definitions are for informational purposes only. For purposes of the University’s Sexual Misconduct Policy, the University will follow its own definitions as set out in that policy.

Domestic Violence

Domestic Violence: Domestic Violence means violence committed by
(a) a person who is a current or former spouse or intimate partner with the victim
(b) a person with whom the victim shares a child in common
(c) a person who is cohabitating with or who has cohabitated with the victim as a spouse or intimate partner
(d) any other person against an adult or youth victim who is protected from that person’s acts under the domestic or family violence laws where the violence occurred

KRS 403.720 Definitions for KRS 403.715 to 403.785 (effective January 1, 2016)

(1) “Domestic violence and abuse” means physical injury, serious physical injury, stalking, sexual abuse, assault, or the infliction of fear of imminent physical injury, serious physical injury, sexual abuse, or assault between family members or members of an unmarried couple;

(2) “Family member” means a spouse, including a former spouse, a grandparent, a grandchild, a parent, a child, a stepchild, or any other person living in the same household as a child if the child is the alleged victim;

(5) “Member of an unmarried couple” means each member of an unmarried couple which allegedly has a child in common, any children of that couple, or a member of an unmarried couple who are living together or have formerly lived together;

Dating Violence

Relationship/Dating Violence: Relationship/Dating Violence is any pattern of behavior used to establish power and control over another person within the context of a current or previous intimate relationship. Categories can include but are not limited to: physical battering, sexual assault, emotional or psychological abuse.

(a) Dating Violence means violence committed by a person who is or has been in a social relationship of a romantic or intimate nature with the victim.

(b) Relationship shall be based on the reporting party’s statement and with consideration of the length of the relationship, the type of relationship, and the frequency of interaction between the persons involved in the relationship.

(c) Dating violence includes, but is not limited to, sexual or physical abuse or the threat of such abuse. Dating violence does not include acts covered under the definition of domestic violence.

KRS 456.010 Definitions for chapter (effective January 1, 2016)

(1) “Dating relationship” means a relationship between individuals who have or have had a relationship of a romantic or intimate nature. It does not include a casual acquaintance or ordinary fraternization in a business or social context. The following factors may be considered in addition to any other relevant factors in determining whether the relationship is or was of a romantic or intimate nature:

(a) Declarations of romantic interest;

(b) The relationship was characterized by the expectation of affection;

(c) Attendance at social outings together as a couple;

(d) The frequency and type of interaction between the persons, including whether the persons have been involved together over time and on a continuous basis during the course of the relationship;

(e) The length and recency of the relationship; and

(f) Other indications of a substantial connection that would lead a reasonable person to understand that a dating relationship existed;

(2) “Dating violence and abuse” means physical injury, serious physical injury, stalking, sexual assault, or the infliction of fear of imminent physical injury, serious physical injury, sexual abuse, or assault occurring between persons who are or have been in a dating relationship;

(2) In any prosecution under subsection (1)(b) of this section, it is a defense that:
(a) The other person's lack of consent was due solely to incapacity to consent by reason of being less than sixteen (16) years old; and

(b) The other person was at least fourteen (14) years old; and

(c) The actor was less than five (5) years older than the other person.

KRS 510.130 Sexual abuse in the third degree

(1) A person is guilty of sexual abuse in the third degree when he or she subjects another person to sexual contact without the latter's consent.

(2) In any prosecution under this section, it is a defense that:

(a) The other person's lack of consent was due solely to incapacity to consent by reason of being less than sixteen (16) years old; and

(b) The other person was at least fourteen (14) years old; and

(c) The actor was less than eighteen (18) years old.

KRS 530.020 Incest

(1) A person is guilty of incest when he or she has sexual intercourse or deviate sexual intercourse, as defined in KRS 510.010, with a person whom he or she knows to be an ancestor, descendant, uncle, aunt, brother, or sister. The relationships referred to herein include blood relationships of either the whole or half blood without regard to legitimacy, relationship of parent and child by adoption, relationship of stepparent and stepchild, and relationship of step-grandparent and step-grandchild.

(2) (a) Incest is a Class C felony if the act is committed by consenting adults.

(b) Incest is a Class B felony if committed:

1. By forcible compulsion as defined in KRS 510.010(2); or

2. On a victim who is:

   a. Less than eighteen (18) years of age; or

   b. Incapable of consent because he or she is physically helpless or mentally incapacitated.

(c) Incest is a Class A felony if:
1. Committed on a victim less than twelve (12) years of age; or

2. The victim receives serious physical injury.

Stalking

In Kentucky, stalking means an intentional "course of conduct" towards a "specific person" that does not serve a legitimate purpose, seriously alarms, annoys, intimidates or harasses that person, and causes a reasonable person to suffer substantial mental distress.

(a) Course of conduct is defined as two or more acts, including, but not limited to, acts in which the stalker directly, indirectly, or through third parties, by any action, method, device, or means follows, monitors, observes, surveils, threatens, or communicating to or about, a person, or interferes with a person’s property.

(b) Substantial emotional distress is defined as significant mental suffering or anguish that may, but does not necessarily, require medical or other professional treatment or counseling.

(c) Reasonable person means a reasonable person under similar circumstances and with similar identities to the victim.

KRS 456.010 Definitions for chapter (effective January 1, 2016)

(7) “Stalking” refers to conduct prohibited as stalking under KRS 508.140 or 508.150;

KRS 508.130 Definitions for KRS 508.130 to 508.150

As used in KRS 508.130 to 508.150, unless the context requires otherwise:

(1) (a) To “stalk” means to engage in an intentional course of conduct:

1. Directed at a specific person or persons;

2. Which seriously alarms, annoys, intimidates, or harasses the person or persons; and

3. Which serves no legitimate purpose.

(b) The course of conduct shall be that which would cause a reasonable person to suffer substantial mental distress.

(2) “Course of conduct” means a pattern of conduct composed of two (2) or more acts, evidencing a continuity of purpose. One (1) or more of these acts may include the use of any equipment, instrument, machine, or other device by which communication or information is transmitted, including computers, the Internet or other electronic network, cameras or other recording devices, telephones or other personal communications devices, scanners or other copying devices, and any device that enables the use of a transmitting device. Constitutionally protected activity is not included within the meaning of “course of conduct.” If the defendant claims that he was engaged in constitutionally protected activity, the court shall determine the validity of that claim as a matter of law and, if found valid, shall exclude that activity from evidence.

(3) “Protective order” means:

(a) An emergency protective order or domestic violence order issued under KRS 403.715 to 403.785;

(b) A foreign protective order, as defined in KRS 403.7521(1);

(c) An order issued under KRS 431.064;

(d) A restraining order issued in accordance with KRS 508.155; and

(e) Any condition of a bond, conditional release, probation, parole, or pretrial diversion order designed to protect the victim from the offender.

KRS 508.140 Stalking in the first degree

(1) A person is guilty of stalking in the first degree,

(a) When he intentionally:

1. Stalks another person; and

2. Makes an explicit or implicit threat with the intent to place that person in reasonable fear of:

   a. Sexual contact as defined in KRS 510.010;

   b. Serious physical injury; or

   c. Death; and

(b) 1. A protective order has been issued by the court to protect the same victim or victims and the defendant has been served with the summons or order or has been given actual notice; or

2. A criminal complaint is currently pending with a court, law enforcement agency, or prosecutor by the same victim or victims and the defendant has been served with a summons or warrant or has been given actual notice; or
3. The defendant has been convicted of or pled guilty within the previous five (5) years to a felony or to a Class A misdemeanor against the same victim or victims; or

4. The act or acts were committed while the defendant had a deadly weapon on or about his person.

KRS 508.150 Stalking in the second degree

(1) A person is guilty of stalking in the second degree when he intentionally:

(a) Stalks another person; and

(b) Makes an explicit or implicit threat with the intent to place that person in reasonable fear of:

1. Sexual contact as defined in KRS 510.010;

2. Physical injury; or

3. Death.

Consent

KRS 510.020 Lack of consent

(1) Whether or not specifically stated, it is an element of every offense defined in this chapter that the sexual act was committed without consent of the victim.

(2) Lack of consent results from:

(a) Forcible compulsion;

(b) Incapacity to consent; or

(c) If the offense charged is sexual abuse, any circumstances in addition to forcible compulsion or incapacity to consent in which the victim does not expressly or impliedly acquiesce in the actor's conduct.

(3) A person is deemed incapable of consent when he or she is:

(a) Less than sixteen (16) years old;

(b) An individual with an intellectual disability or an individual that suffers from a mental illness;

(c) Mentally incapacitated;
(d) Physically helpless; or

(e) Under the care or custody of a state or local agency pursuant to court order and the actor is employed by or working on behalf of the state or local agency.

(4) The provisions of subsection (3)(e) of this section shall not apply to persons who are lawfully married to each other and no court order is in effect prohibiting contact between the parties.
