

Mike Finley is a technical innovator with a track record of successful entrepreneurship in Atlanta, GA. His current work at AnswerRocket focuses on discovering deep insights in business data with AI for global customers. Previously, Mike co-founded Qualia Labs, where he developed recognized innovations in the field of machine learning and big data. Finley also led development of several video games at HiRez Studios. In Mike's early career, he helped build Radiant Systems where he led engineering, product marketing, and technical sales around the world. A recognized author, speaker, and patented inventor, Mike holds degrees in Physics, Math, and Computer Science from Transylvania University.