ABOUT THE MAJOR:

Accomplished accountants have the ability to collect complex financial data, analyze that information and communicate it to others. Transylvania's broad-based accounting curriculum will prepare you for these challenging duties.

Accounting students at Transylvania have access to a wide range of research and internship options, as well as excellent career opportunities.

Students take field trips to local businesses to meet with managers and discuss their operations and accounting procedures. They also have the opportunity to assist professors with research, participate in community service and land internships with area businesses and accounting firms.

Because of Transylvania's innovative curriculum, as well as the rigor of the program, our accounting graduates can sit for the CPA exam without having to earn a graduate degree. Although the current regulations of the accounting profession require 150 college semester hours, Transylvania's unique program entitles our graduates to sit for the exam upon completion of their undergraduate degree. Our graduates also have a strong advantage when applying to graduate schools, thanks to our faculty members' strong ties with top graduate programs across the country, our program's reputation and our graduates' success in graduate school and with the CPA exam.

COURSES OF SPECIAL INTEREST:

- Partnership Accounting
- Governmental Accounting
- Income Taxation
- Forensic Accounting
- Equine Accounting

TRAVEL COURSES:

- Accounting for the Equine Industry (travel to Ireland)
- Forensic Accounting (travel to Grand Cayman)
- International Accounting (travel to Europe)

"My accounting degree from Transylvania has played a critical role in preparing me for a professional career. It helped me develop my analytical skills, allowing me to break down complex problems and solve them with the available information."
